

Lack of sand may shorten project

BY MARY G. SEILEY

The beach renourishment program is some 40 percent complete -- ahead of schedule and possibly running short of quality sand.

Project engineer Bill Mitchell said Thursday 11,700 linear feet of beachfront has been pumped since the action started a month ago, of 30,000 feet in the program.

But project officials said the massive borrow pit offshore that's furnishing the sand has shown some signs of inadequacy. Silt, and some clay material, popped through the pipes recently.

Mitchell said workers are closely monitoring the quality of material spewing onto the beaches, so inferior sand is not spread. While the dredge has shifted to alternative areas of the pit, the total quantity of available sand may be in question, he said.

There are unresolved questions over the extent of the area which will be completed in the county program. Originally, the county obtained permits to create a 200-foot-wide strand, stretching 5.2 miles southward from Washington Street.

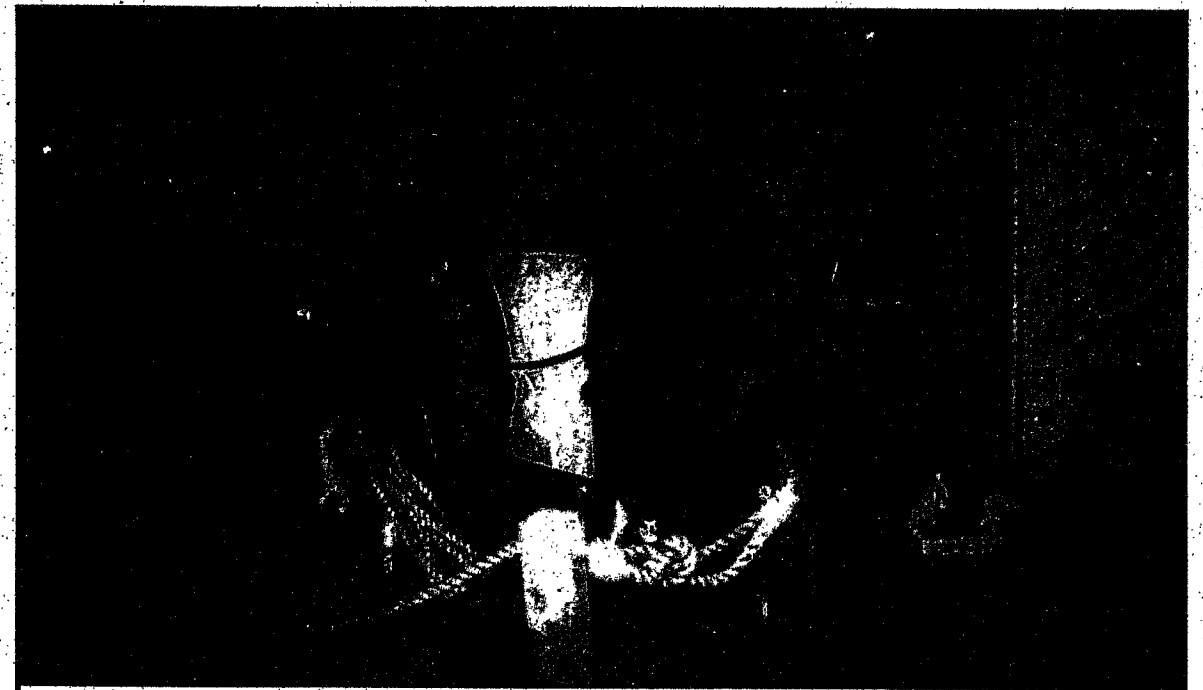

State Bureau of Marine Resources officials, however, are questioning the presence of sea grasses in some of the areas under permit.

Thursday, Mitchell said he doesn't know why BMR raised those concerns after the permits were issued. He said, however, BMR has asked that the project officials define the areas where sea grasses are present. BMR is too busy to dispatch staff to the scene to do that work, he said.

The Board of Supervisors agreed to pay some $400 to $500 for the additional assessment work.

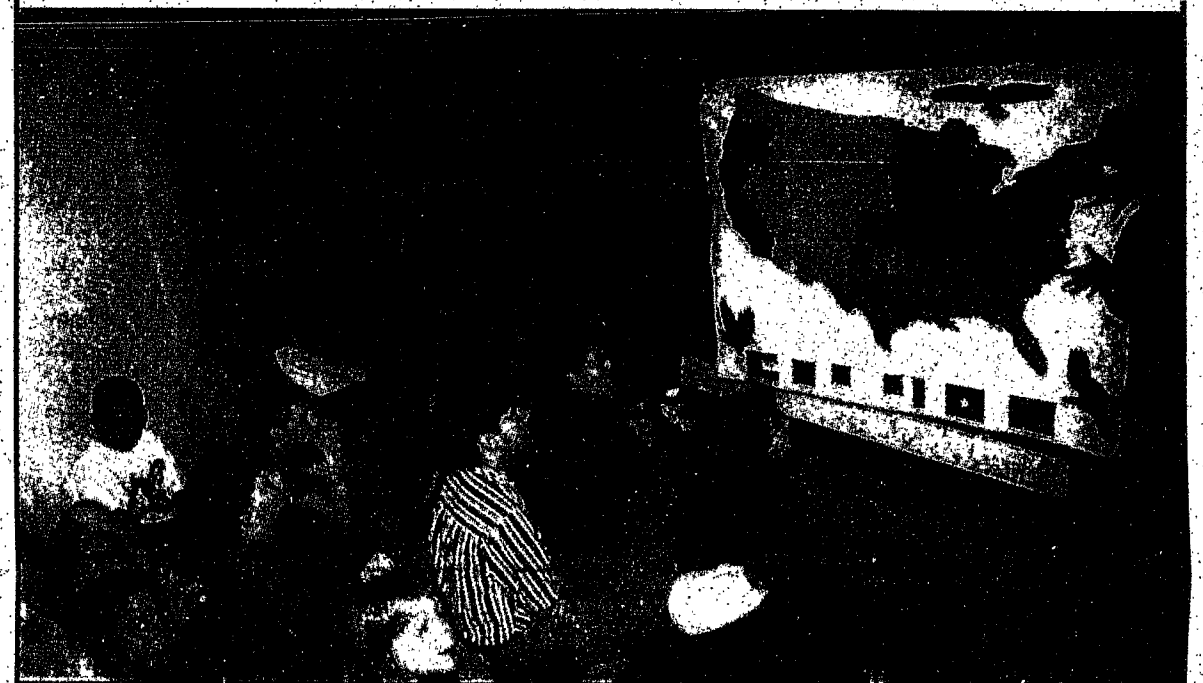

Meanwhile, Mitchell said the portion of the beach the city of Bay St. Louis wants to include in the program stretches some 5,000 feet north of Washington Street, to the Highway 90 bridge. The city has set aside $500,000 to pay for additional work, and has retained Mitchell's services.

Supervisor Robert Peterson stressed the importance of completing as much of the southernmost stretch of the project as BMR will allow, including the Buccaneer State Park's segment. Mitchell said "every teaspoonful of sand" that's needed will be used to complete as much of the county's program as BMR will allow.

County health insurance claims going 'haywire'

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County suffered a "horrendous" 12 months in health insurance claims, leaving officials pondering policy changes and purse-string protection measures.

Administrators of the county's insurance program said Thursday an almost unprecedented rate of major illnesses among insured employees developed between May 1993 and now. "Unfortunately, the claims went haywire," said Jim Lockard of Insurance Services, Inc.

Lockard is advising the county Board of Supervisors to impose more "incentives" for employees to use Hancock Medical Center or Memorial Hospital at Gulfport -- by making it more expensive for employees to use hospitals in Slidell and

New Orleans. Other options, and combinations of them, include hiking employee premiums and the amount the county puts into its insurance fund. Supervisors debated the matter at length in a workshop

Sewer officials request general obligation bonds

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Hancock County officials appear ready to help finance, and refinance, Wastewater District 1 sewer construction.

In a workshop session with the Board of Supervisors on Thursday, district officials asked the county to issue up to $450,000 in general obligation bonds for sewer service expansion in Shoreline Park. The money would be used to match a $250,000 Community Development Block Grant the district has won.

In addition, district officials hope to save some $1.1 million by re-financing a debt it already has with the Farmers Home Administration. The county may include that debt in the bond issue.

Finally, district officials raised the possibility of borrowing more to launch a sewer project for the Pearlinton area. The Shoreline project will

Task force sting nets five arrests

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

A small sting operation by the Metropolitan Narcotics Task Force netted four arrests of Bay St. Louis residents and one from Waveland for the sale of crack cocaine, Shane Corr reports. The five arrests followed several days of observation, Corr, a member of the task force said.

Those arrested, counts of selling a controlled substance (crack cocaine), are as follows: Grayline Wilkerson, 32, 140 Sheila Drive, two counts; Lance Bell, 24, 756 Washington St., one count; Clifton Hall Wilkerson, Jr. 46, 140 Sheila Drive, one count; and Russell James Nichols, 46, 701 Union St., Apt. 8, one count, all of Bay St. Louis; and Arthur Monroe Miller III, 41, 131 Highway 90, Waveland, two counts.

Four of the arrests were made Wednesday with Nichols being apprehended on Friday.

Grayline Wilkerson, Bell and Clifton Wilkerson, were additionally charged with enhanced penalty, Corr said.

Enhanced penalty was enacted in July 1993, Corr said, and it doubles the time for an offense when it involves a person or persons making the sale of narcotics within a certain distance to a city park, playground, school, day care center, ball field, etc.

Bond was set at $10,000 for Grayline Wilkerson and Miller; $5,000 for Bell, Clifton Wilkerson and Nichols.

The Metropolitan Task Force consists of Corr and David Eley of the Bay St. Louis Police Department, Dave Stepro from Waveland Police Department and Matt Karl of the Hancock County Sheriff's department.

"The operation was conducted to remind drug sellers that the task force is working within the county and cities and other arrests are expected," Corr stated.

Waveland employee dies of injuries from train wreck

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

Waveland mourns the death of a city worker whose vehicle was struck by a CSX Freight Wednesday evening at the St. Joseph Street crossing.

Charles Costella, 71, died about 2 a.m. Thursday during surgery at Memorial Hospital at Gulfport, Ricky Jacobs, investigator reports.

Jacobs said, "Costella apparently stopped on the tracks about 4:45 p.m. Wednesday as his 1993 Plymouth Acclaim was struck by the freight."

"His vehicle was hurled into the air according to a witness, and he was thrown from the vehicle some 35 ft. from the vehicle," Jacobs added.

He suffered massive head and internal injuries from the Bay depot purchase remains unsettled

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis City officials are poised to buy the CSX depot, and to hire consultants for a major restoration project. But the sale has hit another snag.

City Attorney John Scafidi said Tuesday closing on the transaction is being held up because CSX officials don't want to sell part of the 1928 structure which sits within 50 feet of the railroad track.

"We want the whole building. We're going around and around about that," Scafidi said. "I don't see why we can't get title to the whole building."

Scafidi said CSX wants to sell the city an easement to the part of the building closest to the tracks.

City Council members agreed to offer CSX a deal in which the city would give back the land within 50 feet of the tract in the event that the building is destroyed or removed in the future.

Meanwhile, the city also agreed to call a special meeting immediately after the sale is consummated, to finalize a contract with consultants on the depot restoration program.

Community Associates, a Biloxi consulting group, is estimating a $56,000 fee for managing the restoration program from start to finish.

The city has federal grants to restore the historic structure to its original state, and refurbish the surrounding properties. The clock is ticking on the grants' availability, however, and city officials are concerned time will run out before the project gets off the ground.

For weeks, environmental tests on the depot grounds held up the purchase. When consultants finally cleared the property as fit, the city agreed to hire Community Associates to manage the project.

Family Child Center— We can help

Special to the Echo
Buy Earlene Harper

Did you know more than 18,000 incidents of child abuse and neglect were reported in Mississippi last year?

The Family Child Center, a non-profit agency for the prevention of child abuse provides services to Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Forrest, Lamar, Pearl River, Perry, Stone, Jones, Green and George County residents. The main center, located in Gulfport, opened in September of 1983, with contact and service offices also located in Hancock, Jackson and Forrest counties.

Service programs include The Parent Aide Program; The Teen Parent Program; parenting classes; parent support groups; community awareness education program; multidisciplinary teams; child victim/witness orientation (Kourt Skool); child advocacy and referral service; and an abuse resource library.

The Family Child Center's Parent Aide Program offers supportive services to families where there has been abuse, where serious stressors present a risk of abuse, or to families "recovering" from the effects of abuse.

The very heart of the Parent Aide Program is community volunteers. The volunteers are trained by the center's training curriculum and then matched with needy families to offer positive parenting and alternate discipline techniques; information on child development, household and stress management, health, nutrition and problem solving, support and encouragement.

Being a volunteer for the Family Child Center in your community does not require a college degree. It does require the ability to offer genuine, caring friendship and understand-

State, Hancock see slight rise in unemployment rate

Mississippi's labor force conditions changed very little between January and February, according to the Mississippi Employment Security Commission statistics. However, both the number of unemployed and employed inched upward, producing a slightly larger labor force and an increase of one-tenth of a point in the jobless rate.

Mississippi's unemployment rate in February was 7.2 percent, up from 7.1 percent in January and from 6.8 in February 1993. In the United States the employment rate dropped from 7.3 in January to 7.1 percent in February. In February 1993, the unemployment rate for the U.S. was 8.1 percent.

In Hancock County unemployment rose slightly, as the MESC reported unemployment rates for February at 5.7, up from 5.1 percent in January. However, in February 1993, Hancock County's unemployment rate was higher at 6.7 percent.

Neighboring counties rates saw slight changes from January to February as well, including: from 5 to 4.9 for Harrison County, from 6.7 to 6.6 percent for Jackson County, from 7.3 to 7.4 for Stone County and from 5.8 to 6 for Pearl River County.

According to MESC, 1994 still has the potential to be another good year of economic growth, but it will likely lag just a bit behind 1993.

Medicare beneficiaries may qualify for additional help

Recently announced changes in the national poverty guidelines could result in more low-income Medicare beneficiaries receiving help to pay for Medicare expenses, such as the Medicare premiums, deductibles and coinsurance payments, said Carl V. Stephens, Social Security manager in Gulfport.

In general, an individual can qualify if his or her income is near the national poverty level of $7,600 annually (the equivalent of $633 per month). A family of two qualifies if their income is near $10,080 annually ($840 per month).

"People whose income is slightly above these limits may qualify for limited help," Stephens said.

Stephens also said that "resources" such as bank accounts and stocks are another qualifying factor. They cannot exceed $4,000 for one person or $6,000 for a family of two.

Cook seeks new Chancery judgeship

Henry J. Cook III, a Bay St. Louis attorney, has announced that he will seek election to the position of Chancery Judge in the Eighth Chancery Court District, which includes Harrison, Stone and Hancock counties.

The position, recently authorized by the legislature will give the three counties a fourth chancery judge, and Cook, an attorney with more than 15 years of trial experience, is well qualified to sit on the Chancery Court.

Most of his experience is in Chancery trial work, with an emphasis on contested divorces, child custody and child support matters.

Cook served as Master in Chancery for more than two years, is a former city prosecutor for the cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland, and is also a past president of the Hancock County Bar Association.

He has served as a guest lecturer for the Mississippi Prosecutor's Association and Mississippi Judicial College training seminars.

He is an active member of the Mississippi PRO BONO Project, which provides free legal services to those who cannot afford to pay for legal services.

A decorated veteran of Viet Nam and Desert Shield/Storm, he continues to serve as a member of the U.S. Army Reserve. He is also active with the Boy Scouts of America and serves as a Scout leader for Webelos Scouts.

He and his wife, the former Ginger Blancher, have three children, Stephen, 10, Collette Marie, 5, and Nicole, 3.

Rains put 'damper' on Senior programs

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Local senior citizens face flooded floorways, falling ceiling tiles and a leaky roof in city accommodations behind the police station, Bay St. Louis City Council was advised Tuesday.

"Every time we have a real hard rain, it floods," Lora Maderos said in making a plea for building repairs. "...It puts a damper on our senior programs."

Bay St. Louis provides space and furnishes utilities for the area senior citizens' programs, in a rambling, aging facility.

Maderos, who heads the Hancock County Human Resources Center, said repairs are desperately needed to the offices, classrooms, cafeteria and meeting areas that the senior program uses.

So far, she said, no one has been hit in the head by falling ceiling tiles. But that's a danger, she said. One person slipped and fell in a flooded passageway, she added.

Renovations that were begun several years ago, she said, were halted before completion. That left the entrance to the facility unfinished, including an exposed electrical box. While the organization has painted and tried to spruce up the building, the major repairs that are needed are beyond the program's grasp, she said.

Mayor Eddie Favre said the renovations that stopped six or seven years ago need to be finished, and the parking lot that serves the facility needs to be completely rebuilt to correct the flooding problems.

Maderos was asked to compile a list of needed repairs.

Thriffley wants drug task force to give report

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Bay St. Louis city officials want some facts and figures from the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force.

"They owe us an accounting. We haven't seen one in three or four years," said Council President James Thriffley. In fact, Thriffley said he's still trying to understand who's in charge of the multi-government task force.

The issue came up in a workshop session of City Council, when the city was asked to refund money it had collected from task force operations back to the task force.

Police Chief Frank P. McNeil said the money is channeled back into the task force operations for equipment purchases. There's no justification for Bay St. Louis, Waveland and the Hancock County Sheriff's Department, which comprise the force, to buy duplicative equipment, McNeil said.

Still, Thriffley said he's concerned that the task force has been "a little bit derelict" in profiling its operations. "Who keeps the money? What kind of interest rate are they getting?" he asked.

Councilman Charles C. Scianna said an oversight committee is needed to keep track of the force's operations, so it doesn't perpetuate itself into an autonomous bureaucracy. Mayor Eddie Favre said officials of Waveland and the Sheriff's Department sit on such a committee that meets quarterly.

Scianna said although he's certain it's not the case with the Hancock County Narcotics Task Force, some such groups have been reported to take extraordinary steps to rake in money. For instance, he said, instead of interdicting a drug supply before it's available for sale, narcotics agents might let sales occur and then confiscate the cash.

While the money then may be channeled into further anti-drug efforts, he said, damage is done by letting drugs reach the street.

McNeil promised the task force would submit monthly reports of its activities to City Council. "Everything," Thriffley advised.

Bonds

provide sewer service to an additional 138 customers. At $35 per month per household, revenues should be some $58,000, with debt retirement at $38,000, officials said.

Refinancing the older debt would lower the interest rate it carries and the length of repayment. Some $1,164,000 is remaining in that loan.

District engineer Duke Levy told the board, meanwhile, the county has a great opportunity to obtain financing to launch a project in the Pearlinton area, if the district is expanded to cover it.

He said Farmers Home Administration officials are offering extremely attractive grants and loans under a new rural development program.

Levy said the agency has grants to cover 75 percent of project costs, with interest-free loans for the rest. But, he said, the money is available on a "first-come, first-served" basis.

Levy said the county needs to submit preliminary engineering studies immediately to get in line for the new program. He estimated preliminary engineering costs at $20,000.

County officials took no action on the matters, but will consider it at its April 14 meeting.

FORGERY

A Gulfport resident has been charged with two counts of uttering forgery according to Bay St. Louis Investigator Shane Corr.

Glenda Ann Brown, 39, 3116 Johnson Drive, Gulfport was arrested for allegedly stealing two checks, forging the signature of the checks owner and cashing at a local bank, Corr said.

Brown was out on a $5,000 bond, Corr stated.

SEXUAL BATTERY

A Biloxi man has been charged with alleged sexual battery of a Gulfport woman in Hancock County, Glen Strong, Hancock County Sheriff's Department Criminal Investigator said.

Emanuel Smith, 30, 886 Apt. A, Biloxi was arrested on Monday with a bond of $50,000 set, Strong said.

Strong reported a group of friends left the night before from the coast to a party in New Orleans. Smith and the 27-year-old woman returned together.

On a road off Highway 603 North of I-10, the sexual battery was reported to have taken place, Strong said.

QUOTABLE QUOTES

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Gerardine Lang, spokesman for Save Our Children, (S.O.C.) called Thursday afternoon to give a report on the progress of the former county-owned building being turned into a youth center.

One of the items the organization is in dire need of is an air conditioner, Lang reports.

Any kind of a window unit will help, Lang says, as the building is very large, and the group is unable to afford the replacement of the big central unit.

Manpower is also needed in moving furniture and other items in order to prepare more rooms to be renovated.

Lang is anxious to get some programs for the youngsters of the area started before summer.

Anyone interested in helping can reach Lang at 467-9586.

Attention, new residents. Primary elections will be held in June, and later on Waveland's city elections will be held.

One must be registered in order to participate in the elections.

Registrations are at the Hancock County Circuit Clerk's office Monday through Friday, 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Residents of Bay St. Louis or Waveland can register at their respective city halls.

I know I have mentioned before how one vote can make a difference, which happened in our last supervisors election.

An alderman was elected in Waveland about 25 or so years ago by just one vote.

So every vote does count, and you should be ready to make your vote count on election days.

Many are talking about how nice our sand beach is beginning to look.

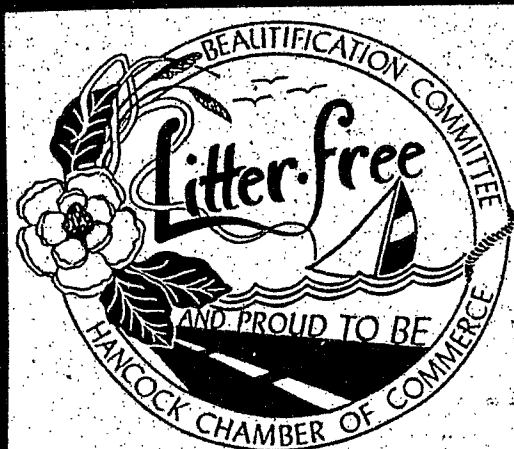

Many are passing compliments about how fast the contractor, T.L. James, is progressing with the project.

A big surprise is how fast the new sand is bleaching out. I know 1965 was a long time ago, but I can recall the new sand being a dull color for months after it was pumped in.

Apparently the long, long look for a good bar of sand is paying off in big dividends.

I see many sun bathers already enjoying the long-awaited project.

The sand serves a dual purpose, recreation and road protection.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Waveland police, 911 receive high praises

Dear Editor:

Plaudits to the Waveland Police Department and 911 service!

Twice in the past 30 days they've responded to 911 calls very quickly: once for an attempted burglary of a home, and last week when an 18-wheeler downed some power lines... took charge, blocked off traffic and notified the companies involved.

This type of responsible and efficient service has to be admired, and the world should know, i.e., this letter.

Clinton health plan supporters need to read bill

Dear Editor:

To the naive individuals who are blindly supporting the Clinton health plan, I would like to suggest they read the 1,069+ pages of the bill.

They would find that what is being said is not what is being proposed.

Like so many other government-regulated health plans, which smack of total socialism, citizens, and in particular seniors, will wake up to discover that many ailments will not be covered. Medical procedures and treatment plans will not be determined by physicians, but rather by bureaucrats, and that all of us will be jeopardized by weakened and rationed bureaucratic regulations.

If the Clinton Health Plan is so wonderful, great, fair, beneficial, why is it that Congress is to be exempted from it, as it is already exempted from a host of laws with which it has burdened the American public?

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

A Weekly Editorial
From Mississippi Economic Council

Mississippi's future is in good hands

Each year, the Mississippi Economic Council's M. B. Swayze Educational Foundation and several Mississippi business sponsor a variety of scholarship and educational programs for students of public and private schools around the state.

One such program is an essay scholarship contest called "Turn on the Light." To compete, students write on topics which focus on improving the future growth of the state of Mississippi.

This year's question was "What can and should be done to enable the state of Mississippi to reach its full potential?"

The young essayists had plenty to say — some things good and some things not so good. Some were things Mississippi's adults would be very proud to hear their youth say, and others a bit shocking.

In the end, the exercise was a great success.

Why?

Because the creative minds of these Mississippi students came to life.

Whether their ideas focused on the subject of crime, teenage pregnancies, family values or education, they all made it clear that the future of Mississippi is, and will be for some time, on their minds.

It's reassuring to know these high school students — a group that often gets some pretty bad press — are thinking deeply about the future of the state. It's also reassuring to know that these young thinkers will be coming along in the next few years to be the doers for the state.

So the next time the news is about a youth who has turned his or her back to the system, remember that there is another youth who is dedicating his or her thoughts to ways for improving the system.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

A strong possibility in '95 of Independent for governor

Gov. Kirk Fordice's worst nightmare when he faces reelection in November, 1995 would be to have to contend with a renegade Republican with strong ties to the Religious Right running as a third party independent candidate.

There is good reason to believe, this writer has learned, that scenario could become a reality.

Of course, what would be a Fordice nightmare would be a dream-come-true for the Democratic gubernatorial standard-bearer next year, likely Secretary of State Dick Molpus.

Last week, at his invitation, I sat down to lunch with Bobby Clanton, of Brandon, the building foundation contractor, who had been one of Fordice's two opponents in the 1991 Republican gubernatorial primary.

Clanton said frankly that he is "considering" challenging Fordice in the 1995 general election as an independent and that if he does, he will pull with him gobs of the Christian Right which Fordice expects to vote for him.

He is still a Republican, Clanton said, but because of Fordice's "heavy-handed approach I don't believe Kirk is building the Republican Party."

Further, said Clanton, he and many others among the pro-lifers and prayer-in-the-school forces of the Christian Right, don't believe Fordice is one of them. "We feel Kirk in his heart doesn't believe in these issues and has jumped on the bandwagon after it started," he declared.

Clanton politically split with Fordice after the August, 1991 GOP primary when Fordice accused him of being paid off by then-State Auditor Pete Johnson to support Johnson in the runoff. Clanton contends he only endorsed Johnson when Fordice declined to take a definitive right-to-life stand.

He later tried to mend fences with Fordice, Clanton says, but the governor responded by purging Clanton supporters in the Republican Party organization.

But the crucial incident that motivated Clanton to consider running as an independent against Fordice in 1995 came last November when a testy Fordice "crashed" a prayer rally organized by Clanton which drew a remarkable turnout of 5,000 whites and blacks in front of the state Capitol.

Fordice had shown up uninvited at the rally and sent word through a subordinate that he wanted to speak. Clanton told the governor's aide that "this is not a political rally" but the organizers would try to give Fordice a few minutes to speak at the end of the program.

Thereupon, Clanton relates, Fordice angrily burst through the crowd up to where Clanton was standing and snapped, "I don't have to speak." Clanton says that the entire scene was captured on video tape which he has in his possession.

Clanton says that after the prayer rally he tried to meet with Fordice, but the governor shunted him off to one of his aides.

The 45-year-old Clanton says he is a different kind of Republican than the Fordicians. "I disagree with them when they say that government has no role in solving many of our problems," he says.

"I guess you could say that I am a Republican with compassion. I'm interested in children's issues and poverty. I also believe in being inclusive of blacks. I don't see how you can exclude 37 percent of the population," Clanton declared.

When Fordice defeated Ray Mabus in 1991, Clanton estimates that Fordice took 80 percent of the Religious Right vote. "He couldn't have won without it," he adds.

Clanton estimates that in a three-way race with Fordice and Molpus, "I could pull 20 to 25 percent of the vote, and 75 percent of it would come from Fordice's vote."

To prove he is not just whistling Dixie on his possible run as an independent gubernatorial candidate, Clanton says he is holding together key backers from his 1991 bid, building campaign files and raising money.

He also has what he calls MERGPAC (Mississippians Entitled to Responsible Government.) That's the group which turned out 5,000 for the prayer-in-the-schools rally.

Diamondhead Arts Society to present 'Musical Splendor'

The Diamondhead Performing Arts Society presents an evening of 'Musical Splendor' Saturday, April 16, 7 p.m. at the Diamondhead Country Club.

Musical variety will headline this third show of the 1994 DPAS season.

Coming to the country club stage will be students of Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College, Perkinston Campus with entertainment encompassing several different periods and styles of music.

The college brass ensemble comprises six brass players, featuring the music of Henry Mancini, Stephen Sondheim, Lerner and Lowe, to name a few.

Mississippi Sound consists of ten singers and dancers who present an exciting 20-minute George Gershwin musical revue.

They serve as good-will ambassadors for Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College at various high schools, churches, civic organizations throughout Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Florida.

Soundsations, a girls trio, and the Soundwaves, a men's ensemble, present a program of light pop, do-wop and gospel style.

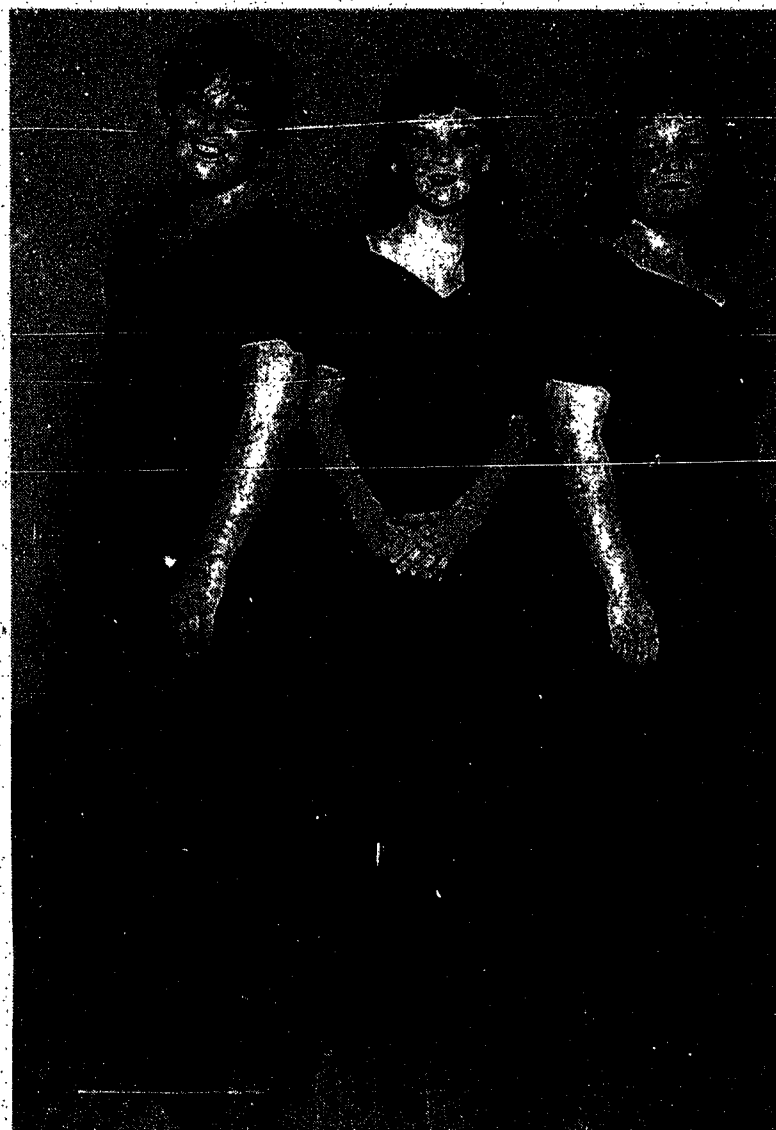

The close harmonies and blend of all three groups makes for delightful entertainment. All three groups, under the direction of Marilyn Smith, have been invited to sing at Walt Disney World in May.

Ticket prices are $12.50 adults and $3 students. Tickets may be purchased at Diamondhead Drugs or by sending a stamped self-addressed envelope to Diamondhead Performing Arts Society, P. O. Box 6028, Diamondhead, 39525. For information, call Lori Darkow, 255-4433. Tickets will also be available at the door.

Arts contest for disabled hosted by Epilepsy Foundation

The Epilepsy Foundation of Mississippi is sponsoring a fine arts competition for disabled Mississippians this fall.

The competition will be comprised of two divisions; visual arts, which should be two dimensional in the form of paintings in all media, photographs and works on paper. The literary works will be in the form of poetry and short story. The Foundation is holding this event in order to give those with disabilities an opportunity to express themselves through art or writing and give the community an educational and cultural event.

For more information and guidelines on the competition, contact the Foundation at (800) 898-0291 or (601) 362-2761.

Arboretum plans membership party

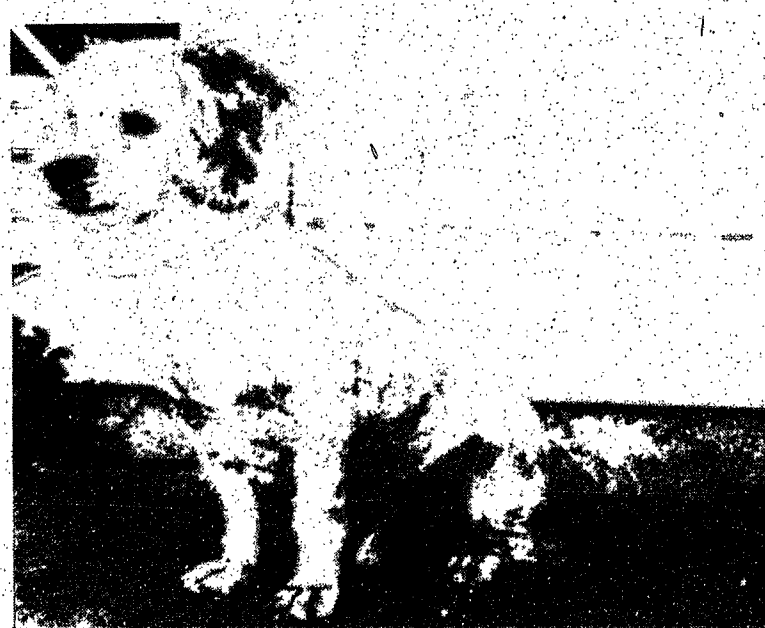

The Crosby Arboretum will host its annual membership party, Strawberries and Cream IX, Sunday, April 17 at Pinecote, 1986 Ridge Road, Picayune, 2-5 p.m.

Entertainment will be by the Countian Bluegrass Band, featuring gospel, bluegrass and Cajun bluegrass. Led by Thomas Tate of Laurel, the group has performed at the World's Fair in 1984 and since then over a four-state area.

Refreshments will be served, and the public is invited.

BREWER'S WORLD

By Jimmie Brewer

I was on a hot and humid western summer day. The year was 1972, and the thermometer, wired to the back of the chainlink dug-out, showed a clear 100 degrees.

It was near the end of the Little League season, and we were playing the Indians, a team we had already beaten twice and no threat to our first-place position. It would turn out to be one of those moments that sticks with you for the rest of your life.

We were batting in the bottom of the fifth inning. I was occupying my normal position, the far left side of the pine, monitoring the water jug and carefully arranging the bats as they returned to the dug-out.

Our team was ahead 9 to 2, and I began to fill with a little bit of nervous excitement as I knew I had a good chance of playing when our team was safely in the lead.

As I dangled my feet over the bench, stirring up dust, I glanced at my Dad... (whoops, I mean coach), who was standing in the coaching box next to first base.

With one out in the inning, the coach caught my glance and gave the signal for me to bat next.

A rush of adrenaline filled my veins, and butterflies attacked my insides as I leaped from the back of the bench and headed for the bats.

I selected my favorite 27 oz. Johnny Bench bat and grabbed an oversized batting helmet as I strutted out to the on-deck circle.

My teammate at the plate had run the count to three balls and two strikes. The next pitch was singled to right field, and I knew once again I had my big chance.

Oh, I had batted on occasions during the season, but I had never managed to reach first base as a baserunner. In fact, I had yet to hit the ball in fair territory. Hearing the encouragement from my team, I knocked the dust of my Kmart tennis shoes and took my place in the batter's box. The red-headed, freckled-faced pitcher delivered his first pitch.

"Strike one," bellowed the umpire from behind the plate. Disgruntled, I stepped away from the plate to gain my composure.

Again I hear the bench cheering me on, and with renewed confidence I took my place and glared at the pitcher as he started his wind-up.

It was another fast ball. With the bat clenched tightly in my hands and my eyes surely closed, I swung with all my might.

"Crack" was the sound it made when the ball connected with the wooden bat.

Stunned and shocked I stood still and watched as the ball made its way past the pitcher and headed for second base.

Then, like a scared rabbit I dropped the bat and took off for first base.

The fielder caught the ball, and much to my delight, decided to go to second for the force-out.

Double plays in Little League are nearly unheard of, so I eased up on my stride and anticipated what it would be like to be a base runner.

To my dismay the swift-handed shortstop made the play at second and wheeled and threw to first base.

With arms outstretched I threw myself head first onto the hard, dusty, hot surface and groped for the bag.

Through the swirling dust and chaos I could see the umpire with his thumb high in the air as he hollered, "You're out!"

Praise for do-gooders this week go out to all baseball coaches and "team mothers" who unselfishly spend their time off so that children can participate in the greatest sport of all.

If you dudes and dudettes want to have a good time and smile a lot, go see those little guys and girls play baseball.

Until next week, pass the biscuits, and make somebody smile today.

Thursday and said they'll make a decision April 14.

As it stands, covered employees have 90 percent of their medical tab paid by the plan if they visit either of the two Mississippi hospitals participating in the program as "preferred provider organizations." If they opt to be treated elsewhere, however, the county pays only 80 percent of the tab.

Lockard recommends changing that ratio to 90/70, meaning a county employee going to non-participating hospitals will have to pay 30 percent of the medical bill, not 20 percent. Jackson County recently shifted to a 90/60 ratio, to entice its employees to use Singing River Hospital, Lockard said.

Hospitals in the Hancock County plan give the county a discount for services, officials said. And there are allowances for patients who must have special treatments not available locally.

But Lockard and his associate, Jim Williams, said some Louisiana hospitals outside the plan try to lure patients by promising they'll accept whatever the insurance program will pay, meaning that the employee pays nothing extra. Some offer freebies, like infant car seats for patients having babies.

The fact is, they said, those hospitals and non-participating doctors charge the insurance plan some 20 to 30 percent more for the Mississippi participants, Lockard said.

The net result is, the employee pays less but the county program has to pay more. That scenario is key in what happened to Hancock County over the past 12 months.

Lockard said eight Hancock County employees had claims of more than $25,000 each during the year. The total tab for them and the rest of the insured workforce: almost $600,000.

The county, which is self-insured, had $421,000 in its insurance kitty to start the 12-month period. It also held a "reinsurance" policy, which covers the county in the event of unexpectedly high claims during the year.

By the time the county had paid out $224,000 in claims, its re-insurance policy kicked in and began paying the claims. That's left the county with a $193,000 "surplus" at this point.

But plan administrators said the high level of payout by the re-insurer will boost premiums for that policy next year. And, they said, the eight people who became seriously ill during the past year are still in the program and are likely to face major medical costs during the coming year.

If the county does nothing now, it will have to pay an additional $100,000 into the program in October, officials estimated. If the county raises premiums slightly, and ups the cost to those using non-participating hospitals and doctors, the county still will have to fork over some $44,000 more into its program in October, officials said.

Supervisors appeared to be tormented by the choices. Board President Michael Ladner said Mississippi doctors and hospitals in the program are as good, or better, than those in Slidell and New Orleans. Thus, the employee should pay more if he opts to go outside the program to seek medical care, he said.

Supervisors Alton Kellar and Howard Lizana, however, opposed moves in that direction. Kellar said many people in the Pearlinton area, for instance, traditionally have gone to Louisiana for health care.

Lizana argued that forcing an employee to switch from Louisiana medical care to Mississippi would spark new rounds of X-rays and other tests. Supervisor Robert Peterson argued that the county should leave everything as it is, and pick up the additional costs. "If we have to come up with $100,000 in October, then so be it," Peterson said.

Chancery Clerk Michael Necaize, meanwhile, argued strenuously that the county can't afford not to clamp down on those who simply prefer Louisiana care over local treatment.

"Why should everybody in the county have to pay because you choose to go to Ochsners?" Necaize said to one supervisor during the debate. "...It's costing us 30 percent more for you to save 10 percent," he said of county patients under care in Louisiana. "Don't get us into a situation where we're going to go broke."

Ladner and Necaize suggested employees with "serious" illnesses could be exempted from the 90-70 rule under consideration if they currently are being treated outside the "preferred provider" network.

Lockard said, however, defining which cases would be grandfathered under such a plan could create an administrative nightmare.

He said if the county doesn't impose the 90-70 ratio immediately, it needs to hike its premiums.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Death, violence and inhumanity are always winners when it comes to movies, novels, conversation and, of course, tabloids. No wonder. Life and death, and their ultimate expressions, love and power, are uppermost in the minds of us all.

It was no surprise, then, that Steven Spielberg was able to parlay an adroit combination of camera wizardry and the worst single episode of genocide in history into a string of Academy Awards on March 21.

The blood-chilling scenes from "Schindler's List" walk us through some of the Holocaust documentaries into a harsh realization of just how ghastly the Nazi program was.

It also reminds us that the other monster, Joseph Stalin, was responsible for even more millions of deaths than Hitler, though his wanton slaughter was not restricted to Jews. Ditto for Stalin's counterparts in communist China.

Some of Hitler's admirers, such as the butcher-dictator "Big Daddy" Idi-Amin formerly of Uganda likewise come into mind. An exterminator on a much smaller scale, the sometime dictator nevertheless reeked of death and decomposition.

Death camps have been and at times still are found virtually around the globe: in the steaming jungles of Africa and Latin America, on the blood-stained mountains of Bosnia, on the bleached sands of the Middle East.

However, as well told as the Holocaust has been, the miasma of untold millions of slain, decaying bodies down through the centuries leads only to ultimate despair. At best, the accounts are saying: "How can we avoid such tragedies?"

What is missing in "Schind-ler's List" and even the finest studies and documentaries is the recognition of a life after this tragic life, totally superior to this present life, and lasting through physical death itself.

"Do not be afraid of those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul; rather be afraid of the One who can destroy both soul and body in Gehenna" (Mt. 10:28).

It would seem that a clear majority of modern Jews, especially the liberal, join most of the ancient Jews in denying the resurrection of our bodies. In fact, many appear to fit the description of practical atheists.

These have no interest in and no benefit from the most urgent an important question at any time in our human life: What happened to the Holocaust victims when they died? What will become of me and my dear ones when we die?

For those who do not believe in the resurrection, there is only the wall of despair to face at the moment of death. But for those who believe in the resurrection, there is the breathtaking spectacle of any empty tomb hard by Calvary.

Grave robbers or sympathetic followers were not responsible for that empty grave. Nor was it any freaky accident of nature's forces which brought it about.

Rather, it was the dead man himself, dead only in body, but transcendent and almighty in spirit, who raised himself through the power of God in heaven.

"Why do you seek the living one among the dead? He is not here, but he has been raised" (Lk. 24:5-6).

That is all we want to hear when we question sickness and death: What will happen to my dear ones when they die?

Safety & Health Council meeting at Keesler

The bi-monthly meeting of the Field Federal Safety and Health Council will be at 11:15 a.m. Wednesday, April 20, 1994, at the NCO Club, Keesler AFB.

A special presentation on hurricane safety will be provided by members of the "Hurricane Hunters" of the 403rd Tactical Air Wing (AF Reserve).

Visitors are requested to check in at Keesler Visitors Center, located outside the main gate at White Avenue.

Pay-as-you-go lunches will be available. A door prize will be provided by Amber's Too Florist, Biloxi.

Meetings of the safety council are open to all individuals who share a common interest in the elimination or control of safety and health hazards.

Pearl River Night Mon., Apr. 18 at Waveland Resort

Pearl River Community College will sponsor a special Pearl River Night Monday, April 18 at the Waveland Resort Inn.

Faculty, counselors, staff, traditional and adult students will be on hand to explain admissions procedures and answer questions. Financial aid information also will be available.

"The Pearl River Night will give high school seniors and juniors, as well as local adults, the opportunity to see firsthand exactly what we have to offer," said Dr. Becky Askew, PRCC recruiting director.

Entertainment, door prizes and refreshments will be available. Registration begins at 6 p.m.

For more information, telephone PRCC at 795-1317.

Library adds 'Helping Your Child' to series to collection

Parents, are you seeking practical advice for helping youngsters learn? The United States Department of Education's Office of Educational Research and Improvement has developed a series to assist parents in helping their children learn.

A complimentary set has been sent to the Hancock County Library System to help parents teach their children everything from the basics of math and science to how to read and use the library.

All of the materials are designed to convey an important message to parents and caretakers in the community:

getting young children in the reading habit lays the foundation for their later learning and success in school. In addition, parental involvement in school and learning is important long after children learn to read, and these books contain a wealth of ideas to help parents be more effective.

"More and more, we are realizing our role as partners with schools and parents in education reform," said Prima Plaque, Hancock County Library System director, "and we hope these materials will help in this endeavor."

For more information, contact the City-County Public Library at 467-5282.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—SUNDAY, APRIL 10, 1994

OLA students inducted into honor societies

Students at Our Lady Academy were inducted into National Honor Societies at a candlelight service in Our Lady of the Gulf Church Feb. 24.

Current members of Msgr. Martin Maloney Chapters of the National Honor Society and National Junior Honor Society conducted the ceremonies. Sarah Gromko greeted the student body, led the assembly in prayer and introduced the program.

Debbie Strong presented the virtues of truth and knowledge, while Melissa Ridgeway lighted the candle.

From the candle of truth and knowledge were lighted the candles representing the four characteristics of a National Honor Society member.

Erin Favre and Kristin Selle presented and lighted the candle of scholarship; Anna Hall and Corinne Carver, the candle of service; Sarah Taylor and Kay Kennedy, the candle of leadership; and Meghan Morris and Annette Morel, the candle of character.

Rachel Pope gave an explanation of the selection procedure for both the National Honor Society and the National Junior Honor Society.

In presenting new members for membership in both Honor Societies, current members tapped and placed a ribbon and NHS insigna around the neck of each. Rachel Pope and Amy Schaefer gave the junior members lighted candles and certificates, and Katherine Scafide and Annette Morel gave the senior members candles and certificates.

The new members of the National Junior Honor Society are Emily Alford, Tara Carri-gee, Andie Fillingame, Dana Fillingame, Laura Flores, Kristen Gilmore, Anna Greene, Rebecca Landry, Meredith Quinlan and Jamie Robertson, all members of the eighth grade, and freshmen Emily Pela, Carey Sahuque and Unita Twiggs.

The new members of the National Honor Society are Kristen Pace, senior; and Anne Courrege, Laura Dhuy, Beth Killenkoffer, Hannah Erwin, Amie Geary, Amy Jones, Haidi Kerbl, Kara Kortman, Erica Lizana, MiMi Montagnet, Jennifer Myers, Julia Ryan, Bernice Sy and Jennifer Trowbridge. Sister M. Donella, principal, congratulated all inductees on accomplishing the four characteristics of the NHS. She also encouraged all students not only to obtain high academic standards, but to continue to work hard like the Olympians in order to accomplish their goals.

Following the ceremony, parents and guests were invited to a reception honoring the 1994 inductees.

Other 1993 National Honor Society members involved in the induction ceremony are Rebecca Dockens, Danielle Gobert and Margaret Weltz.

Other 1993 National Junior Honor Society members assisting in the ceremony are Elizabeth Byrne, Vicki McDonald, Jessica Strickland, Noel Twigg and Katie Wiley.

MILITARY MENTIONS

PO3 GORMAN

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Brian E. Gorman, son of Billy J. and Rose M. Gorman of Bay St. Louis, was recently promoted to his present rank while serving with Helicopter Mine Countermeasures Squadron 12, Naval Air Station, Norfolk, Va.

He joined the Navy in December 1989.

PO1 BECK

Navy Petty Officer 1st Class Walter A. Beck, whose wife, Lynette, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Prevost of Bay St. Louis, was recently selected as Sailor of the Quarter at the Naval Oceanography Command Facility, U.S. Naval Air Station, Bermuda.

Beck was chosen as the top performer from among all the sailors assigned to the command and was cited for outstanding professional accomplishment, proficiency, leadership, initiative and military bearing.

He joined the Navy in July 1971.

LT. WHEAT

Navy Lt. Steven P. Wheat, a 1976 graduate of Bay Senior High School of Bay St. Louis, recently returned from a four-month Persian Gulf deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS Independence, forward deployed to Yokosuka, Japan, the lead ship in its battle group.

USS Independence, with embarked Carrier Air Wing Five (CVW-5), served in support of the United Nations' sanctioned Operation Southern Watch.

In the Gulf, the battle group joined Navy units from both U.S. coasts and ships from France and the United Kingdom. While CVW-5 aircraft monitored Iraqi compliance with the "no fly" zone, many of the surface ships participated in maritime interception operations, with crew members boarding foreign cargo ships by small boat to inspect cargo bound for, or departing from, Iraq.

During the deployment, Wheat made port visits to Singapore; Abu Dhabi, Dubai and Jebel Ali, United Arab Emirates; Manama, Bahrain; Pattaya, Thailand and Hong Kong.

The carrier's mission follows the Navy's new strategy entitled "...From the Sea," which shifts the sea services' focus from a global threat to regional challenges and concentrates on near-land warfare and maneuver. On short notice, naval forces are poised to respond to crises in distant lands.

He joined the Navy in January 1984. Wheat is a 1981 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, Hattiesburg, Miss., with a BS degree.

CLUBS, AUXILIARIES

Diamondhead Lions Club

Some 85 members, guests and visiting Lions attended a March 15 banquet to celebrate the first anniversary of the founding of Diamondhead Lions Club.

The Diamondhead Baptist Church Youth Group provided top-notch catering, but, as club president Howard Peters stated, if membership continues to grow at the first year's rate, a larger venue will be needed next year.

Guest speaker Buster Crider, a past director of Lions International, praised club members for their work and made a special note of the nearly $2,000 the club had raised to support training leader dogs, medical research to combat eye disease and to aid Coast residents with vision problems.

District Governor Jerry Felder and past District Governor Dr. James Schrock added their own words of praise and encouragement for the outstanding results the club has achieved in fund-raising and community service.

The club's "mentor," Raymond Rome, from the Bay St. Louis Lions Club, was quick to cite the Diamondhead Club's continued and rapid growth. He noted that starting with a charter membership of 34, the club now has 44 active members with three new candidates being inducted that evening.

"Most service clubs and organizations tend to experience a drop in membership during their first year," he said, "but not Diamondhead. I would be surprised if your club wasn't well past the 50-mark by June."

The Diamondhead Lions Club meets the first and third Tuesday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Diamondhead Community Center. Call 255-3753 or 255-5116 for further information.

Hancock Women's Club

Hancock Women's Club president, Theresa Bourgeois, announced the regular meeting will be Thursday, April 14 at 11 a.m. at the Waveland Resort Inn. A luncheon will follow after the meeting.

Invited guest, Jean Ann Thriffley, will demonstrate the many ways to use silk scarves.

Members are reminded dues are now payable.

American Legion Post 139

Several of Post 139 legionnaires received awards for their contribution to the post for the year 1993.

The awards were presented at the Legion's 75th birthday and the post's 71st celebration in the finished main hall Friday, March 11.

Ed Clark and Gus Aime both received life membership cards for their work during the current year.

Other members who received awards for their work in the post were James Long, Henry Prevou, D. W. North, Curtis Summers, Al Summers and Bill Moran.

The house committee was thanked by the post for the great job they did on both the main hall and club house.

A short meeting was held prior to the celebration, followed by happy hour and a roast beef meal.

A band played for those who wanted to dance.

Pass Christian Garden Club

"The Good Life" will be portrayed in flowers, foliage and special exhibits at the Pass Christian Garden Club's annual spring flower show Thursday, April 21 at the Hancock Bank Civic Center, corner of Davis Avenue and Scenic Drive.

Of horticultural interest will be vines, roses, cut branches, annuals, biennials, perennials, bulbous and container-grown plants.

Special exhibits will be displayed by residents in Pass Christian, and the club salutes North Street Elementary fourth-grade students; Jubilee for their garden accents; and Raintree Gallery for a majestic waterfall.

Mrs. Don L. Costa is show chairman, and Mrs. McInnis L. Ward is club president, supported by all members of the Pass Christian Garden Club.

The public is invited, and admission is free.

VFW Ladies Auxiliary Unit 3253

Theodore S. Price Ladies Auxiliary 3253 to the Veterans of Foreign Wars met Thursday, March 17 at 7:30 at the post home on Third and Washington streets.

Billie Tudury, president, opened the meeting. Inez Bouis was chaplain in the absence of Ursula Favre.

The minutes were read by secretary Anette Bell, and treasurer Lucille Boudreaux reported on the finances.

Genevieve Cole, patriotic instructor, led the Pledge of Allegiance.

Tudury reported the auxiliary achieved 100 percent in all programs. Hazel Wohlschlegel gave the rehab report, and committee members Genevieve Cole, Mamie Carver, Evelyn Burns and Rose Jaquillard hosted an Easter party for Hotel Reed Nursing Center residents.

Prayers are being asked for Jesse Burns, who is ill, and for Oris Planchard.

The Charter was draped by acting conductress Janell Necaise and acting chaplain Inez Bouis for Eloise Bounds, who passed away recently. The club extends deepest sympathy to the Bounds family.

Sympathy is also extended to Loretta Johnston and family on the death of her sister, Mrs. Lester Hover.

Get-well wishes are extended to Genevieve Cole, who is a patient in Hancock Medical Center.

Fund-raisers were discussed by Tudury.

The Voice of Democracy winner, Rebecca Dockens, earned first place in the post and auxiliary contest and seventh place in the District I contest. She will be honored April 30 at the Loyalty Day program, sponsored by the post and auxiliary. Boudreaux is Loyalty Day chairman.

May 6 and 7 will be the District I convention at the Biloxi Beach Motor Inn.

Boudreaux and Cole will be honored at a tea for the Post District I presidents.

The next meeting will be Thursday, April 21 at 7 p.m. at the post home, 343 Third Street, which will include nominations and election of officers. Members are asked to pay dues of $12, which may be mailed to Boudreaux.

Coast Community Concerts Association

Coast Community Concerts Association closed its 46th annual membership drive "a complete sell-out," according to president Herb Carnathan.

"The drive, under the chairmanship of our membership person, Margaret McDougal, was such a huge success that there is already a waiting list for next season," he added.

Community Concerts, a Columbia Artist's affiliate, is the largest arts organization on the Gulf Coast with 1,350 paid subscribers. Its members are drawn from Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

Carnathan said there will be a change in the entertainment lineup for the 1994-95 season. The Pasadena Roof Top Orchestra and Dancers from London will be replaced by the Palm Court Theatre Orchestra and Dancers from London.

Anyone having a problem with the new programming change may contact him at 864-9487 for a refund.

Sr. Citizens of Waveland

The Senior Citizens of Waveland will meet at 10 a.m. Monday, April 11 in the American Legion Hall, Post 77.

Featured speaker will be Randy Tartanville of Fahey Funeral Home.

Refreshments will be served.

Ladner tosses one-hitter as Hawks win

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Hancock Hawk baseball team, behind the pitching of Kelton Ladner, hammered the visiting d'Iberville Warriors 9-1 on March 31.

Kelton Ladner won his eighth game of the season as he pitched a one-hitter and whiffed nine batters. The only hit Ladner gave up was a solo homer by Derek Bickham in the fourth inning.

Hancock opened the game with a five run first inning. The Hawks added three more in the fourth and one run in the sixth.

Lance Wedgeworth had a good game at the plate going 2 for 3 with 2 RBI's and scoring two runs. Scotty Davis went 2 for 3 and scored three runs. Phillip Causey and Dion Cuevas also had 2 RBI's for the Hawks.

Hancock's record to date is 8-6 overall and a 4-3 division record.

Hornets sting Rocks 8-4

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The St. Stanislaus baseball team lost to the East Central Hornets 8-4 on March 31.

The SSC junior varsity squad defeated the Hornets in the early game 9-3. The Rocks scored seven of their nine runs in the first inning. Matt Helms got the win for the Rocks.

In the varsity game, the Rocks made mistakes that cost them early.

The Hornets jumped out to an early 1-0 second inning lead. The Rocks came back in the third and scored three runs taking the lead 3-1.

The Hornets had a huge inning in the fifth scoring five runs and added two more runs in the seventh.

The Rocks added their last run in the bottom of the seventh.

Jeremy Penton went 2 for 3 to lead the Rocks. Troy Schwant and Ben Williams went 2 for 4 in the contest while Correy Gex got the other hit for the Rocks going 1 for 4.

Coach Tim Burns commented, "We made some critical mistakes that are haunting us. We are competitive but we make the mistakes early."

Tigers win cross-town battle

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II
The Bay High Tigers and the St. Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws hooked up in a cross-town and Division 8 Class 4A battle on April 4.

The Tigers downed the Rocks by the score of 14-5.

Coach Tim Burns stated, "Again we made some critical mistakes early that haunted us throughout the game."

In the junior varsity game, the Tigers and the Rocks tied at 5-5.

In the varsity game, the Tigers opened the scoring in the second inning with a run. The Rocks came back in the bottom half of the second and scored two runs to take the lead.

The Tigers scored three runs in the third and ten runs in the fourth to conclude their scoring.

The Rocks scored two runs in the fifth and added one run in the sixth.

Bay High tallied 17 hits on the night with Luke Weems, David Barlow, and Jeff Hopgood getting two hits each. Bennie Murphy had a career night at the plate tallying three hits. Coach Fred Weems commented, "This was one of our better hitting nights. SSC has young pitching. Bergeron (SSC) will be tough on the mound with growth and maturity."

He continued, "We got a lot of hits, and I was proud of Bennie (Murphy) with his three hits. The division is going to be a close one. It will go down to the wire."

Bay High's record is 5-2 in the district. SSC's record is 4-17 overall and 2-7 in the district.

Curling is a team sport...
...There are many different...
...leagues such as mens, womens...
...couples, juniors, seniors and...
...family. Size and strength are...
...not required for the sport. It is...
...an easy one to learn. The skill...
...that is involved is more finesse...
...and focus on the game rather...
...than physical strength and...
...prowess.

The equipment needed is not...
...numerous nor bulky. A special...
...ly made broom is used by all...
...team members to "sweep" the...
...ice. Special shoes are made for...
...the sport but are not required...
...Clothing should be warm since...
...the sport is played on ice. Shoes...

Pro advice

Long-time curler Bill Harwood delivers the stone as Joe Gex and Elaine Harwood sweep the ice for better results.

team attempts to place their...
...stones closest to the tee. The tee...
...is the center of the house, like a...
...bullseye on a dart board. Only...
...those stones closer than the...
...opposing stones will be counted...
...as points. The score is tallied...
...at the end of 16 stones.

The highest score attained at...
...each end is 8 points. An 8-point...
...end is more rare than a hole-in...
...one in golf. A typical game score...
...is 1 to 3 points.

Many aspects can affect the...
...outcome of a game: a) the condi... tion of the ice (fast or slow), b)...

...the amount of curling on the...
...stones, c) and the strengths and...
...weaknesses of the other team.

This is not a new sport. It is a...
...sport with over 400 years of...
...tradition. Curling had its begin...
...nings during the 16th century in...
...Scotland. The sport was origi...
...nally played outside on ponds...
...that had been frozen over. The...
...first curling stones were made...
...by mother nature. The first...
...stones curved or sometimes...
..."curled" on the ice, hence "curl...
...ing" had been created. Brooms...
...were used to smooth the ice so...
...that the stone could travel fur...
...ther.

The immigrants from Scot...
...land brought the game to the...
...United States in the 18th cen...
...tury where it spread across the...
...northern states and Canada.

The modern version of the...
...game had evolved by the 20th...
...century. Indoor facilities with...
...refrigerated ice and standard...
...equipment had been created. It...
...had become a game of both fit...
...ness and finesse.

The sport was a demonstra...
...tion sport in the 1988 Calgary...
...Winter Olympics. It will be an...
...official medal competition sport...
...in the 1998 Winter Olympics.

This is an exciting sport. It is...
...one in which you can have fun...
...and test your strategic intel...
...lect. Curling provides the sti...
...mulation of the mind that some...
...sports do not provide. I had a...
...wonderful time while I partici...
...pated in the sport and its com...
...petition. As far as I know I am...
...the No. 1 ranked curler in this...
...area. The National Champions...
...hips are coming up. Maybe...
...Mississippi should field a team...
...and take a shot at the Olympics...
